JSW Barrel Feed Castings

If you have JSW presses on your floor, you know the pain and schedule disruptions caused when changing a barrel. Normally, after the barrel is removed, it must be sent out to have the feed casting pressed off the old barrel and then pressed onto the new barrel, because the OEM will only sell new castings with new barrels — a practice that's good for them but terribly expensive for you.

Molders Services can help you maximize your productivity!

At Molders Services we are experts in the identification of problems related to injection end components. We will come to your facility at no charge to identify any problems and guarantee the results. We will also work with you on a preventative/predictive maintenance program.

- In-plant consultation & inspections
- Quick lead times
- Emergency repairs

There's a better option.

MSI offers new JSW feed castings for sale independent of the barrel.

We simply install the feed casting on your new premium barrel and then ship the assembly directly to you – eliminating 2+ weeks of lost production and downtime.
